1. Idioms about expressions

(1) poker face

- He kept a poker face, hiding his true feelings underneath.
- You've got a great poker face, I have no idea what you're really thinking.

(2) keep a straight face

- Even though she wanted to laugh she kept a straight face without showing her emotions.
- He is terrible at keeping a straight face he always reveals his feelings.
- He's always so straight-faced.

(3) smile from ear to ear

- I love seeing kids get presents they always have a huge smile from ear to ear.
- He was smiling from ear to ear when he heard the good news.

(4) Jump to conclusions

- I wouldn't jump to conclusions about him just because he doesn't care about his fashion.
- I don't like to jump to conclusions, especially if not all of the facts are available.
- Let's not leap to the conclusion.

2. Using 'who', 'which' & 'that'

(1) Adding more information

- 'Who', 'which' & 'that' are 'relative pronouns' that can be used to give more information about a non-specific noun.
- 'Who' and 'that' is used for describing a person.
- 'Which' and 'that' is used for describing an object.

(2) Practice

- ‘One student studied until 4am, another student went to bed at 11pm. Who did better on their test?
  - The student who went to bed at 11pm did better on their test since they weren’t sleepy.
  - By doing extra study the student that went to bed at 4am would do better on their test.

- ‘One restaurant sells burgers another sells salads and juice. Which restaurant is better?
  - The restaurant which seeds salads and juice would be better since it’s healthier.
  - Burgers are much tastier than salads so a restaurant that sells them would be better.

(3) Defining non-specific nouns

- ‘Guess what the profession is based on the clues.

  - This is a job which requires patience to do it.
  - The person who does this job needs to be a good communicator and have a good understanding of music.
  - The person that does this usually works with children
  - A music teacher

- ‘Guess who is being described.

  - This is a man who seems intelligent.
  - This man has a job which is related to engineering.
  - It’s a man who is wearing white.

3. Discussion questions

Q: How can you figure out vocabulary without using a dictionary?

You can always try to define the word. Or maybe even give an example of it being used. For example; I can't remember the idiom which means someone makes a judgement before considering all of the facts. This type of judgement is usually incorrect too. Jump to conclusions.

Q: Do you jump to conclusions based on how someone is dressed?

If I see someone who is dressed well or poorly I try not to jump to conclusions but it is human nature to judge people by their appearances.

Q: Do you have a good poker face?

I'm the kind of person who has a terrible poker face I struggle to keep a straight face while I'm talking. I easily show my feelings when I play card games with friends. Especially if I have good cards in my hand then I'll smile from ear to ear knowing that I might win.
