Part 3 – Being a tourist

- How should tourists behave when they are in a different country?

→ The most important attitute people should have as a tourist is being respectful, I think. What I mean by this is, you know, usually as a foreigner, we might not share the same culture or value on things. Therefore, people who are travelling to other countries, especially to the countries which have completely different cultures, need to be more careful and try not to be too ignorant of the culture. Learning basic manners or simple words in their language could be included into this kind of efforts.

Part 3 – Being a tourist

- How should tourists behave when they are in a different country?

→ I think we should try to learn basic manners for the culture of the country we are travelling to. Or, learning and speaking simple words for “Thank you”, “I’m sorry” could be helpful to have better experience in the country. Since we might hold different culture or value on things, being ignorant of their culture could make the local people upset. So, I think tourists should be respectful trying to learn more about the countries they are travelling.

Part 3 – Being a tourist

- What can local people do to help tourists enjoy their visit?

→ Well, first of all, they should feel more welcomed and comfortable to enjoy their trip, so being more open-minded to foreign tourists is gonna be one thing we can do as the local. Although it sounds natural and common, to some people who are under the culture which is quite reserved, it might not be that easy to smile and be friendly to strangers. So it'll be important to try to be open-minded proactively. In addition, since a majority of tourists travel out of curiosity on a new environment, culture and people's life style in other countries, if local people are willing to teach their culture to tourists, their experience will become more extended and meaningful. I heard that there is a homestay system where people host tourists in their home giving them opportunities to live the local life mingling with local people. Or, from my experience, it was such a good memory when I toured in Bath in the UK with the guide who volunteered to guide the tourists with passion and love for thier own country. Such efforts will definitely help foreign tourists to have better and memorable experience in the new environment.

Part 3 – Being a tourist

- What can tourists learn from visiting new places?

→ A lot of things, I guess. Firstly, they can learn and appreciate new environment like mountains, grand valleys, rivers, beaches… Those different views and sceneries are the first thing that catches tourists' eyes I think. Then, they can learn different foods, clothing, life styles that come from the different environment. For example, the drinking cultures in cold areas, relaxing and slow life style in hot areas are all very interesting. Of course, many tourists enjoy travelling to learn about the cultures and history of the place. So, they try to visit monuments and historical spots to learn more about them while looking for the chance to mingle with local people to look at their culture more closely.
