Part 3 – The future of newspapers

- Why do some people choose to read the news on the Internet rather than in a newspaper?

→ Needless to say because of its convenience. Not like newspapers, we don't have to go, buy, and carry the paper. Now, we can easily find a great deal of information on the internet through our smart phone or computer. Also, we don't have to wait until newspapers are released next morning. Instead, you can have an access to the updated information all the time. Because of this kinda convenience, people prefer internet for the news, I think.

Part 3 – The future of newspapers

- How is Internet news different from the news you read in the newspaper?

→ There are a couple of differences between internet news and the newspaper, I think. The biggest one is the fact that on the internet news you can leave comments, which allows people to learn other people's opinions on the topic as well as them to express their own. In addition, internet news tends to be shorter than news articles on the newspapers. I think the reason for this is because of its nature. I mean, online news is updated in real time with the latest change while newspaper articles are written with full information about an event. Moreover, journalists use a range of different references including video clips, links to another article, coloured pictures and so on in the internet news making it possible to be shorter than a full page news article.

Part 3 – The future of newspapers

- Will Internet news ever replace newspapers? [Why? / Why not?]

→ Not completely. I'm sure the majority will feed news through Internet news with its diverse features, especially in the time facing serious environment problems like now. Since it helps to cut down the amount of paper consumption, internet news will be more likely to be encouraged. However, newspapers will not be completely replaced because it requires basic use of computers or smart phones, which are not owned by everyone. Also, the use of gadgets are not that easy to be learnt to some people including the elderly, so I don't believe it can be completely replaced.
