❖ Full Response

Well, personally, I don't think the university should allow pets in the dormitories. And, I feel this way for a couple of reasons. First of all, it can be a distraction. To be more specific, as a student, academics should be the top priority. Nothing else matters because we are evaluated by our academic records. And, having a pet can take time away from studying. Another reason is that pets are expensive to maintain. What I mean is that these days, most students are on a tight budget, so they cannot afford expensive pet foods, toys and vet fees. Therefore, having a pet is not economical. So, this is why I don't think the university should allow pets in the dormitories.

To be more specific, as the Great Wall of China was not built in a day, the amount of time we invest in something will enhance our artistic ability. Another reason is that artistic ability can also be learned by working others. What I mean is that by working with others, we can share different opinions and skills, and give each other useful advice to gain artistic ability. Athletes-Only Gym
Since the addition of the women's and men's football teams, there is a serious lack of training facilities. The university's athletic teams usually work out together, so they need plenty of space and equipment to do so. Unfortunately, this means that athletes have to compete for space with other students that are exercising. We understand that everyone needs to exercise to stay healthy, but if athletes cannot exercise regularly, they cannot compete. Therefore, we recommend that an athletes-only gym be established. The old science hall has extensive plumbing and other factors that would make it an ideal building to convert. Sincerely, Terry Hawkes

Now listen to a conversation.

❖ Listening Script

W: Oh, I don't believe this!

M: What? What's going on?

W: Did you read this proposal in the campus newspaper?

M: About the exercise facilities? Yes, I thought he raised some valid points.

W: That may be, but why should we spend more money on the athletic teams than we already do? They use up a huge amount of the budget as it is.

M: Yes, I know. But, he did propose that they renovate the old science hall into a gym. It used to have the pre-med classrooms in it, so there are already showers and other facilities that they can use. It shouldn't be too difficult to convert it.

W: That will help some, I guess. But, they would still have to buy all new exercise equipment for it. Not only that, but they are still going to have to share the facilities with each other. Do you know how many teams our school has now?

M: No, over ten?

W: Easily, and their seasons overlap, so they are still going to have problems.

M: I suppose, but look at it this way. If the athletes all go there to work out, you won't have to wait in line as much for equipment or to take a shower.

W: True, but I still don't like how much special treatment they get.

❖ Full Response

The student in the letter recommends that an athletes-only gym be established. However, the woman in the conversation is not fully in support with the idea. And, she feels this way for a couple of reasons. Her first reason is that it will be a waste of the school's budget. According to the woman the athletes spend a lot of the school's budget. If the school establishes an athlete's only gym, then the school would need to buy new equipment. Another reason she mentions is that the recommendation in the letter doesn't benefit the athletes. She explains that there are too many teams at school. As a result, even if the school establishes an athlete's only gym, the athletes would still have to wait in line. Therefore, the woman opposes the idea of the letter.
