❖ Full Response

Well, personally, there were several differences between the schools I attended. First of all, my middle school had smaller classes because the school was fairly small. To be more specific, by having a small class of 6-8 people, we had an opportunity to share different opinions and skills, and give each other useful advice. On the other hand, my high school was more academically inclined because it was a renowned private school. What I mean is that academics were the top priority. Nothing else mattered because we were evaluated by our academic records. So, these were the differences between the schools I attended.

❖ Full Response

Well, in my case, the kind of volunteer work that interests me is tutoring at the community center. And, I feel this way for a couple of reasons. First of all, I want to help under-privileged children. To be more specific, these days, some families are on a tight budget, so they cannot afford to have proper education. Therefore, by volunteering as a tutor, I can have an opportunity to teach children who are under-privileged. Another reason is that I can feel good about myself. What I mean is that volunteering at the community center shows that I really care about my community and it allows me to gain a positive reputation. So, this is why I'm in interested in tutoring at the community center.

Allow Notebook PCs in Class
I propose that students should be allowed to use notebook computers in the lecture halls during classes. Most people type much faster than they can write by hand, so this would allow students to take more detailed notes. Since many people can touch-type, they would even be able to take notes without taking their attention off of the professor's presentation. Students could also look up websites that the professor mentions for further information. For these reasons, I think that allowing notebook computers would improve the learning environment. Trevor Ng

Now listen to a conversation.

❖ Listening Script

M: Hello, Caitlyn, long time no see.

W: Greg! How was your vacation?

M: I went to Israel.

W: That sounds great!

M: Yes. What's that you're reading?

W: Oh, just the school paper. Did you see this letter to the editor about students bringing notebook PCs into classrooms?

M: Yes, I did. I agree with most of the points, but I still don't think it's a very good idea.

W: Why not?

M: Well, firstly, the lecture halls are not equipped for it. You know how quickly a notebook computer drains its battery. Each individual seat does not have an outlet for people to plug in their notebooks.

W: Oh, I hadn't thought about that.

M: Even more importantly, while some students will use them properly, I think more of them would use their computers to play games and check their personal websites instead of taking lecture notes.

❖ Question

The man expresses his opinion about allowing students to use notebook PCs in class. State his opinion and explain the reasons he gives for holding that opinion.

❖ Full Response

The student in the letter proposes that students should be allowed to use notebook computers in the lecture halls during classes. However, the man in the conversation is not fully in support with the idea. And, he feels this way for a couple of reasons. His first reason is that the lecture halls are not equipped for laptops. According to the man there are not enough outlets for each seat. As a result, most students would not be able to charge their laptop batteries. Another reason he mentions is that he is concerned about students using the laptop for the wrong purposes. He explains that most students would play games or check personal websites instead of taking notes. Therefore, the man opposes the idea of the letter.
