❖ Full Response

Well, personally, I agree with the given statement. And, I feel this way for a couple of reasons. First of all, we need to be concerned about air pollution. To be more specific, restriction of cars to enter downtown shows that we really care about the environment because cars emit harmful gases. Another reason is that too many cars in the city will cause more traffic jams. What I mean is that the crowded atmosphere of the traffic jam will lead people to become more annoyed and emotionally sensitive. So, this is why I agree with the given statement.

Providing Contact Info of Future Roommates to All Freshmen
Starting this fall semester, the university will supply all incoming freshmen with the contact information of their future roommates once they have been assigned. This new policy has been enacted to make their transition to university life smoother. Since freshmen are required to live in the dormitories for at least their first full year, who they will be sharing their room with is very important. This will allow them to get acquainted before they move in, and if necessary apply early for a new roommate. In addition, it will make the moving process easier since students will be able to decide who will provide what furnishings for the room.

Now listen to a conversation.

❖ Listening Script

M: You don't believe what, Sally?

W: Did you see this announcement on the school website about the new freshmen?

M: You mean the new policy about giving incoming freshmen contact information for their future roommates?

W: Yes, that's the one.

M: Yes, and I think it's a great idea. Like the notice says, they can get to know each other in advance, and they can avoid bringing the same things for their room.

W: That's true, but what about the other part. You know, where it says that they can request a new roommate before the semester begins. Won't that cause a lot of problems? I mean think about it, these kids have never lived away from home, and the prospect of a strange roommate is scary. If they don't think that they will get along, they'll request a transfer right away. They are going to get a lot of requests.

M: I see your point. That could make things difficult for the registrar's office.

W: Not only that, but having to get along with your roommate is also part of the point. It's training you for the real world.

M: That is also true. But, I think I know what is really bothering you. You wish they had done this when we were freshmen, too.

W: No comment.

❖ Question
